H. GAYLORD WILSHIRE. To which we have this to say:

Socialism is not a patent medicine sold 50 cents a bottle-while the doctor is pulling the teeth of the capitalist system free of charge on the band wagon.

A great deal of harm can be done and ine by booming the person more than principle. History shows that many great and noble idea has been perserten from its original lofty aim in that All democracies were brought to a end by men who thoroughly under the art of self-advertising. Yet, th H. Gaylord Wilshire has adverhimself in the Challenge more than aditor we have heard of, we are not raid that he will ever become the rch of Socialism. He is too gay a for that. Still we cannot see any it for Socialism in it.

By the way, we can tell Mr. Wilshire two daily papers in this city have mented on the action of the Assistant ster-General and in both cases the est was unfavorable to the govern-So we are not so Utopian after as for Mr. Wilshire posing as aire Socialist he was called least a dozen times in every of his paper. Mr. Wilshire could stopped it very easily. By consentto it, he simply made his bow to the in Dollar God. But it is one of id taken so deep a root as in this

More just think of it, kind re three years only, of which three months and a half have pessed, stand between us and the Social Bevolution. And the Socialists of America have not carried single ward in New York, Chicago, Phil-sdelphis, Boston, Baltimore, or in any other large city in the United States. Be sides they have not carried a single town ship in this great country.

So much for the ballot.

And we venture to say that the entire proletarist of the country—the overlarge majority of which does not know any thing about Socialism as yet-is not in possession of five bundred rifles. And only two years, eight months and fourteen days to the great revolution. Just think of it! Would not it be high time for Comrade Wilshirs to teach the young idea how to shoot? So much for the bullet,

But, says Mr. Wilshire, who is a husiness man and is called a millionaire, and vidently has a great respect tor money -but, says he, there are two thousand million dollars surplus which we are pro ducing every year, according to Mr. De pew, and which he (Depew) says must be shipped abroad. But Wilshire says that foreign trade is no solution, and ha also agrees with Depewthat if it is not a remedy we shall have within three years a tremendous and insoluble unemployed problem.

We cannot see it in that light. We do not believe that we shall have even one of the periodical industrial crises of the capitalistic system within three years, to let alone the Socialist Revolution. If the two thousand million dollars is all that Mr. Wilshire, the husiness man, is basing his revolution upon, then let me tell him that is a small sum for us pro letarian Socialists. But seriously speaking, it is a little sum. The least little rise in the standard of living of our population - let's say a rise of $30 for every head during the year, hardly a noticeable change—would be sufficient to wipe out that surplus. And as long as our working people cannot compel the capitalists to raise the standard of wages even as little as that, how are they to compel them to give up everything?

Besides Capitalism does expand and will expand into Mexico, South America and Asia. As a matter of fact there is plenty of room for capitalist development in the northern states of our own country, while the South is almost entirely undeveloped.

No need of going into details. only want to bring out the tact clearly that any man who promises the people the Co-operative Commonwealth within three years is to put it mildly-a "Utopian.

And as for Socialism it is a long and earnest fight. We may not have fullfledged Socialism in three years, or in five years or even in ten years. But the future is ours,-inevitably ours,-and so we cannot give up the fight. And we will undoubtedly see a great deal of Socialism before we die.

The startling news comes from Chicago that the bankers there depreciate Social ism and have no use for Socialists. This is truly frightful. The Tendency in this Country and What it Leads to.

The tendency to-day is towards the ciutralisation of all industries—tarming probably excepted. We have pointed out in several articles before that in the agricultural pursuits there is no centralisation proceptible and we also gave the probable reason for that phenomenon. But in all other industries the centralisstion continues and will make socialisation necessary sooner or later it civilisation is to survive.

We do not claim that such transformation will come over night, or that it is even possible to have a sudden change.

But we do claim that this tendency toward socialisation of industries will con time until not only the water supply systems, the gas plants, electric light works, railroads, telegraphs, street car lines, and other enterprises that ere now in a condition of metamorphosis from individual to public administration have become public property and are in collective possession of the people; but until all of the great industries and business affairs that have reached the trust stage, or are near it, including the insurance business, the hanks and the great department will become government monopoly.

The objection is raised by some Socialists that if the farmers are allowed to keep their land, we would not have "Marxian" Socialism. To which we an swer, that we do not care a --- whether our Socialism be Marxian or otherwise as long as we change the present system and emancipate all the people, and especially the proletariat. But if the poor and miserable are to wait until the possession of farms is concentrated as the machine shops or the mines are, they may just as well wait until they get to heaven. So much is sure, we in the West are not willing to wait that long, even if some of the inhahitants of the east side of New York might be inclined to do so in order to be truly "Marxiso."

But if we don't want to walt it is also a fect that if some "Marxists" would to have the "collective ownership of ALL the means of production and distribution" in this country in spite of the American farmers and try to take their land away by force, such "Marxists" might just as well get ready to get off the earth, for to deag the moon down to the Bowery of New York would be just as easy a task. All the factory workers of the world, and the New York har-tenders, could NOT take away the farms from the seven million American farmers and make them "common property," which, hy the way, would not even be socialistic (not even according to Kantaky)+it would simply be esinine

So we will better leave the farmers out of the question and simply suppose that hey will be friendly to Socialism, by which they have fully as much to gain as the proletariat, even if they do keep their farms during the next generations of the most important means of production and distribution, with the exception of the products of agriculture, will produce a system so machine-like in structure that the life of those who participate will become uninteresting.

The answer to that objection is simple With the exception of agricolture, the large part of production and distribution has already become one gigantic machine, of which the individual workran, soperintendent or book-keeper is but an atom responding like any fraction of a smaller machine to the other part of the mechanism.

The question to be settled is no longer, are we to have a machine-like pro duction and distribution? The question is, by what authority and in whose authority is the machine to grind?

We now have machine-like production-mechine-like private and public life. our machine la constantly growing in extent and becoming more complex and fixed in every department of its vast structure. The trouble is about the ownership.

It is owned by comparatively few great corporations, the number of whom atockholders is limited to a cless that has already become an aristocracy with powers greater over the lives of their fellows then any other aristocracy in mod

The demand of the people is now that the machine he taken nonsession of by our government-in which we all have a vote and which we can shape as majority decides as soon as we have a majority-and then worked in a dem ocratic way for all the people.

about the execution of the Anarchist assassin Leon F. Czolgosz is the air of mystery the authorities try to put around the affair when all the daily papers of the country had full and detailed re-

The stiendants seized Czoligosz's legs and, passing the strajes around them, hound them firmly. A cut had been made in the right leg of his trousers, ready for the electrode, which was applied after the man's leg had been bared above the knee.

More incoherent words foilowed, almost unintelligible.

Then he said plainly:

"I am not sorry for my crime."

All was now ready for the adjustment of the wires. With his face almost hidden by the straps, Czolgosz made one final effort to talk. He was evidently thinking of home, for just before the current was applied he said:

"I am heartily sorry I could not see my father."

Electrician Davis glanced esrnestly as the slectrode and straps to see that all was in readiness. He stepped back and placed his hand on the lever. Then Warden Mead gave its fatal signal. Etc.

Capitalism is preparing the way for Soillism to more than one way. Even the ideal of Engels—farm life with city advantages is getting to be more than mere dream.

A farm is a different place now that it was twenty years ago. Rural troller lines are turning the farms near cities tato suburban residences. A farmer's family can go to the city and shop or attend the theater.

Free postal delivery routes have been established in almost every state and territory. Every rural delivery wagon is a money order postoffice. The carriers sell stamps, register letters and pay mostey orders

The old "distreed" school is also dis appearing rapidly. Farmers have good schools nowadays and in some counties of Wisconsin the children of the farmers are now carried to and from school in busses, which enables the farmers to build large central schools, arrange them according to grades and hirs the bes teachers.

And now our farmers have also tele phones.

The first successful attempt to estab lish a complete rural telephone service is due to H. C. Hackney of Elkhorn, Wisconain, who, believing that farmers would gladly welcome superior telephone service at reasonable rates, raised the pecessary capital and built in the town ship of East Troy, Walworth county, the only telephone line of this character in the United States. Of the 160 farmers living in or about the township, t15 are now enjoying a telephone service, which by an alliance with the Wisconsin Tele phone company, alows them communica tion with all places io the state.

Under the new conditions it is a bene fit to the working class that it is constantly driven out of the city 10to more comy and airy quarters eight or tan niles away. The city proletarist in order to be rejuvenated needs more air, more sun and more health. If the city proletaire gets ioto touch with the farm er it can only result in the advantage of

Our "reform" mayor, David S. Rose wants the Polish vote and wants it bad ly. He is willing to pay good money for it, and he evidently thinks the best money is the city's money.

He has shown that many a time But just now the mayor's proclivity or the "Pollsh vote" may cost the city $125,000 in one lump.

When a few weeks ago it was decided to have a new bridge at Broadway the board of public works of our city took Charles W. Finley, who have been inthe ground that it would not do to advertise for the contract to remove the old bridge at the present time.

The first reason urged was that the bridge could not be completed for a year and that it would not do to move Broadway bridge and to keep that thoroughfara without a hridge all that time Then it was also urged that it was an ab solute waste of money for the city to huild a bridge at Broadway at this time if the elevated road, which has secured a franchise, is to build a bridge at that place. The company has declared its intentions to huild the road. If the city insists upon building the new bridge It will simply throw away $125,000, if the elevated road builds its line. One of the provisions in its franchise is that it must

Mayor Rose, however, would not listen to the reasons urged for delay. ile literally whipped the members of the board of public works against their judgment into line and compelled the board to ad vertise for the building of a new bridge and the removal of the old Broadway bridge to Lincoln avenue at once.

For, while it is an indisputable fact that there are more people passing at Broadway bridge in a week than at Lincoln avenue in a year, there are weight ier reasons in Mayor Rose's mind for disregarding that.

Mayor Rose is always at work fishing and trading for votes. He knows there is a great amount of dissatisfaction with his administration among certain of the Polish leaders on the south side. Ha is making every effort to get them in line for the spring campaign.

Now there is Alderman Maciolek, who has property near Lincoln avaoue. And there are others interested in real estate in that vicinity. Rose has promised Ald. Macioliek and the others that Broadway bridge will be moved as soon

It is commonly charged that criminals as a class are not amenable to kind freatnest and cannot reform. Many are made criminal directly by the industrial gratem and nothing so demoralises men as lack of employment. An instance o en unable to better their condition outside a prison occurred the other day:

Judge Skinner, in the court of quarter sessions at Newark, N. J., sentenced Max Miller and Alfred Welling, two housebreakers, to eighteen months each in the penitentiary at Caldwell.

When the judge was about to leave the bench a note from the twn prisoners was handed to him. He ordered that Miller and Welling be again brought before him. This was done, and the judge in a kindly tune asked: "Why do you want to learn a trade, so that we may earn an honest living when we come out," was the anawer. "Do you understand," asked the judge, "that I cannot send you to state prison for less than two years?"

upor the great question which oversh own all others, via., the industrial pe-leis, so Justice Brewer, surrounded he was by much of the intellect of the country in the conservative atmosphere of old Yale, satisfied those who heard him east, a grave sumicion that the attitude of Socialists upon this world-problem was correct and had historical and logical sanction. He told his audience what Sie cialists have siways contended, that the growth of trusts and centralization of industry is the natural and necessary consequence of economic evolution and in unmistakable language, pointed out the utter futility of all attempts to turn

His exact language as reported by the daily newspapers was this: "The great forces of industry, business and politics eem to be passing under the dominance of single central control. You cannot stay this movement toward centralization. It is natural evolution. Injunction against strikers will not stop. Legislation against trusts will not. Attempting to stay the movement of its charlot wheels by injunction or by statute is lunacy compared with which Dame Partington's effort to stop the Atlantic with a mop was supreme wisdom."

There is bere matter for profound reflection for the flippant opponents of Secialism who have been accustomed, in the absence of argument and reason, to perate the Socialist advocate as mentally inhalanced. It is as if Justice Brewer had taken almost bodily the words he used from the speech of a Socialist agitator. It is more than that. It is confirmation, or rather admission, from an unexpected quarter, the Karl Marx's ontention that all other interests are subordinated to the economic system is grounded in stern and irresiatible fact.

Every day adds its proof to the con plete failure of legislation to stay the progress of centralization. Every hope held out to the people that it can be done is a delusion and a snare. Search where you will you will fail to discover any ra tional method of dealing with the probiem, save in the manner that socialism suggests. The trnth is that it is not a problem to be tinkered with, hn: a fact be accepted. The thing to be done is to decide whether the "dominance of a single central control" shall continue, or whether society as a whole appropriate to its use and benefit the indispensable means of life, which, we maintain, it is necessary to do for the preservation of

The New York Independent, a magazine which pretty respectably represents whatever really deserves to be called half-way respectable in capitalist society, has this to say on the attitude of the business men toward corrupt government:

Many thousands of susiness men will vote for Mr. Low hecause they are Republicans, and Mr. Low is the regularly sominated candidats of the Republican party. If these same business men had formed the habit—which the dream reformer would long ago have had them form—of thinking of municipal politics as something to be divorced from national politics, it is asfe to say that they would not vote a Fusion ticket. With a single-minded enthusiasm that would take thereformer's heath THEY WOULD PUT IN THEIR WORK FOR TAMMANY HALL. This we know is a well-nigh appailing statement. But we also know that it is unqualifiedly true. The average business man in New York City, Chicago, or Philadelphia, right down in the buttom of his heart does not wapt an unfinch ing, honest, business-like administration, which will enforce the law to the letter. honest, business-like administratio which will enforce the law to the letter, and mete out even-handed justice. On the contrary, he wants an administration that he can "see." He wants polk-men who will stroll stolicty by while the sidethat he can see: He wants pointement who will stroil stolicity by while the side-walk in frout of his warehouse is piled ten feet high with packing cases. He wanta a hoard of assessors who are "all right" on the delicate subject of special assessments for street improvements. He wants a huilding department which will let him put in wood for iron, sand for cement, and brick walls for windows. He wants a board of health that won't get "too nasty" when he burns soft coal, or violates the ordinance in regard to the storage of noxions materials. These are hard sayings, but every man in New York City who has survived the age at which human beings are supposed to cut eye teeth knows that they are true; and no one knows it better than the average New York business man himself. In his momenta of relaxation, when he talks placed upon the property by the railway officials themselves. This result is attained, of course, by the connivance of railway officials, and the companies have even refused to pay taxes on the low assessments. Over a hundred and fifty millions of property escapes taxation because it is property belonging to corporations having power enough in the state to control its government and ambject every interest of the people for which government is supposed to atand to the private interests of wealth.

An attempt is being made to competitives, and supposed to atand to the private interests of wealth.

An attempt is being made to competitives and other corporations, like the street railway companies and the gas trust, to pay their just share of the public burden. Immediately after a decision adverse to them is given by a court the cry is set up that "capital will leave the state" and "the corporations will go elsewhere—to Hades K they please; but "capital" will not leave the state. The situation with reference to the threatened strike of miners in France is considered serious. It is said that arms have been smuggled to the miners. It is also said that extensive military preparations have now been completed for drafting strong bodies of troops into the coal fields to protect the miners and non-strikers.

The Germans are not much in advance of us in their methoda of setting labor struggles, and mannfacturers over here appear to have even more trouble with their employes than those in the United States, writes William E. Cartiss in the Record-Herald. During the year 1890, the latest for which statistics are obtainable—and I must say that we see far in advance of the Germana in the prompt publication of statistics and government reports—there were in the German empire 1336 strikes, lavolving 7121 employers and 154,017 workingmen. Of these 99,338 persons struck work voluntarily and 10,122 were forced or induced to atop work hy strikers. The metal trades, the second largest number in the mines and the third in the textile manufactories; 1128 of the strikes were for higher wages, 379 for shorter bours of labor and in 596 other reasons were involved. Of the total number of strikes 333 were entirely successful, 528 entirely failed, 439 were compromised or were partially successful, and the remainder were pending when the report was published.

Special boards of arbitration are frequently appointed in emergencies by the local authorities where labor disputes have arisen, and both parties are invited to accept mediation or arbitration, but they cannot be compelled to do so. If both accept, the arbitration board is given the same authority and its decisions have the same force as an ordinary court. It has the right to summon winnesses and coupel their attendance. We feel each other more and more, feel our relations to each other and to society; and, fellowing slowly, comes the perception of wider ranges in social condition and their affects.

This may be noted clearly in the progress of penology. Once we recognized only the individual criminal, and met each separate offense with direct retailation.

only the individual criminal, and met each separate offense with direct retailation.

Now we recognise that certain social conditions tend to develop criminal lendoucles in types and classes; and we are studying the bottom problem—how to prevent crims, not how to punish it.

The phenomena of illness, of poverty, of wealth and its accompanying pangerism, these and many others are being studied as "social questions," no longer as individuas ones.

This shows the perfectly natural growth of that prime factor in our further uplifting—the social consciousness.

It is no question of "class consciousness, its no question of "class consciousness, its no question of "class consciousness," though that is a long step higher than personal conaciousness; but is the genuine progressive extension of husuan nerve-activity to the farthest limits of the social organism. This consciousness seems strangely alow in coming, from certain points of view. We wonder how these people can live in such apparent calm and content while they know that other people are living in conditions which cause not only enormous personal suffering to them, but constant deteriors tion to society.

There is a perfectly matural reason for suffering to them, but constant deteriors that to society.

There is a perfectly matural reason for this callousness, and one that takes care of itself—that will hring sensitiveness as lnevitably as it now maintains insensitiveness. At present social conditions are such that most people suffer, suffer in varying degree, some horribly, some middly, but generally suffer.

The moment you "let your heart go out." as our phrase is, to a wide range of human life, you receive sensations of pain. If you can make a physically comportable environment for yourself and your family, and not think of the down-town east side, you don't suffer much. It was of the Ut
